IN MEMORIAM.

(There is a melancholy sweetness in the following exquisite lines that subdues the soul like the notes of a plaintive song floating by night over the surface of sleeping waters. From the Louisville Journal, says of them, "One might almost wish to die, if he knew that so beautiful a tribute as this would be written to his memory.")

On the bosom of a river
Where the sun unclothes his quiver,
And the star light gleamed forever,
Bathed a vessel light and free.

Morning dew drops hang like manna
On the bright folds of her banner,
While the zephyrs rose to fan her
Softly to the radiant sea.

At her prow a pilot beaming
In the flush of youth stood dreaming,
And he knew that so beautiful a tribute as this would be written to his memory.

Through his hair the breezes sported,
And as on the wave he floated,
On that pilot, angel throated,
Warbled lays of hope and love.

Through those locks so blithely flowing,
Buds of laurel bloom were blowing,
And his hands anon were throwing
Music from a lyre of gold.

Swiftly down the stream he glided,
Soft the purple waves divided,
And a rainbow arch divided
On his canvas snowy fold.

Anxious hearts with fond devotion,
Watched him sailing to the ocean,
Prayed that never wild commotion
Might the elements might flee.

And he seemed some young Apollo,
Charming Summer winds to follow,
While the water flags corolla
Trembled to his magic song.

But those purple waves enchanted,
Through the lively Southern summer,
By an awful spell that haunted
Every corner to the shore.

Night shadows rank the air encumbered,
And pale marble statues numbered
Where the lone sailors slumbered,
And woke to life no more.

Then those rushed with lightning quickness
O'er his face a mortal sickness
And the dew in fearful thickens
Gathered o'er his temples fair.

And there swept a dying summer
Through the lively Southern summer
As the beautiful pilot came
Perished by that city there.

Sill rolls on that radiant river,
And the sun unsheds his quiver,
And the star light gleamed forever
On his bosom as before.

But that vessel's rainbow banner
Gleams no more the gay banners,
And that pilot's life drops manna
On the purple waves no more.

A DEPARTURE BY THE RAIL.

The Louisville (Ky.) correspondent of the Louisville Courier writes, July 23d:

A deplorable tragedy was enacted about a mile from our quiet little village this morning at daylight, which resulted in the death of a promising young man, and the mortal wounding of another whose future was all brilliancy and promise.

Littleton Wells and Sanford B. Roberts were both young men, occupying enviable positions in society. Wells was about twenty-two years old, and Roberts was probably two years his senior. The former was Deputy Postmaster, while the latter was clerk in the store of Roach & Strother.

For some time both had been paying marked attention to an amiable and beautiful young lady of the neighborhood, and until a month past were generous rivals, their relation toward each other being on the most friendly footing. Some three or four weeks ago Wells visited the young lady and made a formal proposal for her hand.

His proposition was respectfully but firmly declined; and upon pressing her for her reason for her declination, she modestly informed him that she had already accepted a similar proposition from young Roberts. Wells returned to the village. He first armed himself with a pistol, and then sought his successful rival at the store. Here an altercation ensued, which would have had a bloody termination had not bystanders interfered. From that time until Saturday they were as strangers to each other. On that day they both attended a picnic, Roberts being accompanied by his fiancée. As soon as Wells saw them together he seemed to be imbued with the very spirit of insanity.

Approaching them, he grossly insulted Roberts in the presence of the whole assembly. The outraged man sprang to his feet and started toward his insult, evidently to resent the insult.

Roberts and his fair companion immediately left the ground and repaired to her home, where she, fearing a difficulty between the parties, endeavored to persuade him to spend the night. In that she failed, but succeeded in extracting a promise from him that he would not return to the picnic ground. Reaching the village, and brooding over the gross outrage that had been put upon him, he went to his room and penned a challenge to mortal combat, which he entrusted to a friend to be delivered into the hands of Wells.

This mission was accomplished that night. Next morning a friend of the challenged party called upon the friend of Roberts to arrange the preliminary arrangements was that the fight was to come off in a meadow about one mile east of the town, at daylight on Monday, the weapons to be Colt's revolvers. At the appointed time principals and seconds were on the chosen ground. The principals were placed ten feet apart, with instruction to fire between

WORTH THINKING OF.

This country is staggering under an enormous load of Public Debt. The Federal Government owes Two Billions and a Half; the States owe large amounts; while Counties, Cities, and Townships, have each their several burdens. We are paying, in the aggregate not less than Three Hundred Millions per annum as interest on these various debts, while we are considerably reducing the principal, especially of the local obligations incurred in providing bounties for the volunteers in our late struggle. Altogether, the taxes paid by the people of the United States, though considerably reduced from the maximum they attained in 1865-6, must probably exceed Five Hundred Millions per annum. Almost everything is taxed, from the baby's posset to the old man's coffin—many things twice and three over. It is generally agreed that our taxation may be readjusted and simplified, so as to render it considerably less irksome.

Will some one attempt to explain the seeming paradox of an immense and steadily increasing migration, from countries that owe little and tax lightly in comparison, to this overburdened republic? That some should flock hither at all events, is natural; but that the volume of immigration should be not merely maintained but largely augmented, under the pressure of gigantic debt, a high tariff, heavy internal taxes, and an inflated, irredeemable currency, is a puzzle to political economists. Immigrants are still pouring in, at the rate of a thousand per day; and all of them who know how to do anything, and will do it, find employment and remuneration. Labor is as well in the average, and as comfortably subsisted, as it was when we had next to no debt, light taxes, and a currency convertible into specie at par. The real estate of the country could be sold to-day for more money (reduced to specie) than it was worth ten years ago. Most of our people are prospering; many are amassing wealth. Houses are being built on every hand; lands are being improved; new farms are being hewn out of the forest and carved from the prairie; our railroads are being extended at the rate of a thousand miles per annum; and the product of our National Industry in 1867 will be larger than that of any former years.

Do we not need a new political economy recognizing and adapted to this state of fact?—N. Y. Tribune.

Iron is a most valuable and curious metal, and has properties that no other possess. While gold, silver, copper and other metals are softened by heating and sudden immersion in cold water, the effect on iron is direct the reverse. Although its grain is coarse, it will receive and retain a fine edge impossible with them. It can be changed from a brittle, impure mass, without tenacity, to a substance so tough, ductile, malleable, and elastic, as to be unsurpassed in these respects; or it can be made into steel as brittle as glass, yet as elastic, as it is possible for any metallic substance.

The Committee on Salaries of the Michigan Convention has recommended the following salaries: Governor, $3,000; Secretary of State, $2,000; State Treasurer, $2,500; Commissioner of State Land Office and Superintendent of Public Instruction, $2,000; Auditor General, $2,000; Attorney General, $3,000; Judges of the Supreme Court, $3,000; Judges of the Circuit Court, $2,500.

In digging on the canal near Goshen, Ind., the other day, the workmen found the tomb of a mastodon, some ten feet under ground. It measured near three feet, and the lines made by that portion which had decayed, show it to have originally been about ten feet long. It was expected that the skeleton of the monster animal will be found in a few days.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S DREAM.

In Mr. Pierpont's speech in the Surratt trial he said:

"The assassin of a ruler never has escaped though he has taken 'wings of morning and fled to the uttermost parts of the earth.' On the morning of April 14, Mr. Lincoln called his cabinet together. He had reason to be joyful, but he was anxious to hear from Sherman. Grant was there, and he said Sherman was all right, but Mr. Lincoln feared, and related a dream he had the night before—a dream which he had previous to Chancellorsville and Stone river and whenever a disaster had happened. The members of the cabinet who heard that relation will never forget it. A few hours afterwards Sherman was not heard from, but the dream was fulfilled. A disaster had befallen the government, and Mr. Lincoln's spirit returned to the God who gave it. The dream was fulfilled. It was to this purpose! He seemed to be at sea in a vessel, that was swept along by an irresistible current toward a maelstrom, from which it seemed no power could save her. Faster and faster the whirling waters swept the fated ship toward the vortex, until, looking down into the dark abyss, amid the deafening roar of the waves and with the sensation of sinking down, down, down to an unfathomable depth, the terrified dreamer awoke. The same terrible dream Mr. Lincoln had four times; first before the first battle of Bull Run, again before the second disastrous defeat at this some place, again before the battle of Murfreesboro, and finally, as above mentioned, on the night before his own assassination. Mr. Lincoln had at last come to recognize the dream as a portent of some grave disaster."

LINCOLN'S VIEWS.—On page 67 of Henry J. Raymond's life of Abraham Lincoln, you will find the following:

"Judge Douglas has said to you that he has not been able to get from me an answer to the question whether I am in favor of negro citizenship. So far as I know, the Judge never asked me the question before. He shall have no occasion to ever ask it again, for I tell him very frankly that I am not in favor of negro citizenship."

He accused Douglas of manufacturing opinions for him, and repudiated the idea of his disposition to produce an equality between the negroes and the white people. And on page 68 he adds:

"Now my opinion is that the different States have the power to make a negro a citizen, under the Constitution of the United States, if they choose. The Dred Scott decision decides that they have not that power. If the State of Illinois had that power I should be opposed to the exercise of it."

Upon these opinions Lincoln was elected President of the United States. It is well known that while he advocated the gradual emancipation of the slaves and the compensation to loyal owners, he earnestly urged the policy of colonizing the negroes either in Africa, or Central America, or in the West Indies. Congress passed at his disposal $600,000 to be expended in colonizing them. The plan failed. New Grenada objected to their coming, and some of the agents proved faithless and incompetent in attempts to settle them elsewhere. But Lincoln objected to their remaining in this country. On pages 505 and 506 of Raymond you find an account of an interview between President Lincoln and a committee of colored men on the 14th day of August, 1862, arguing upon them the necessity of colonization he said:

"You and we are different races. We have between us a broader difference than exists now between any other two races. Whether it is right or wrong I do not discuss; but this physical difference is a great disadvantage to us both, as I think. Your race suffer very greatly, many of them by living among us, while ours suffer from your presence. In a word, we suffer on each side. If this is admitted, it affords a reason, at least, why we should be separated."

On a rainy winter evening a gentleman traveling in a hack found, on nearing his destination, that he had no money with him, so, thinking he would try the honesty of the driver, he called out as he ran up the steps, "Wait a minute—I have dropped a ten-dollar bill in the coach, and will get a light and search for it." The words were hardly spoken when the Jehu gave the horses a furious lash and drove off at a violent rate. The gentleman heartily amused at the result, called after him repeatedly, but never saw hack or driver again.

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION-EDIFICE.)

New York, Aug. 20.

The Times says the political situation is much calmer than for several days. In a letter from Grant to the President on Saturday, he earnestly urged Johnson to modify the order and even went so far as to state his opinion that persistence on the part of the President in his present course would bring immeasurable evils upon himself and on his administration. He visited the President yesterday morning and the President insisted on the order as it stands; Grant had nothing to do but obey. Whatever instructions Grant may deem necessary will follow hereafter in separate orders.

Washington, 20.

This morning Langdon, the colored lawyer, called upon Grant and stated to him in substance of his interview with the President, and asked General Grant's opinion as to the propriety of his accepting the office of Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau. The latter replied that he thought, under the circumstances, it was inadvisable for him in every respect to accept the office. He thought if Howard was removed, Langdon could not hope to give greater satisfaction in that bureau. Gen. Grant, in conclusion, said nothing had been said to him about Howard's removal, but if it were accomplished he thought for the reason already stated, that it would be inexpedient and of no practicable benefit to the colored race for Langdon to accept it under existing circumstances.

New York, 20.

A new six story building 32d street, belonging to Mr. Wale, fell to-day. One laborer was severely injured.

The Intelligencer to-day feels authorized to state that the reports of personal differences between the President and Grant are unfounded. It is known, however, that very decided differences, regarding legal questions affecting their respective powers and duties exist under the reconstruction acts.

A special to the Post says, after careful investigation it is generally agreed among the friends of Grant that the supplemental reconstruction act confers his authority over district commanders solely to approval and disapproval of their acts in removing rebel officials. It does not extend to all the acts of said commanders, such as postponing the elections, changing registration etc., and this is regarded as a great omission by Congress. It was not so understood by Grant when Thomas was directed by him to continue in force every order of Sheridan's.

Fernando Wood had a long interview with the President to-day.

News from Venezuela of the 9th inst. says, United States Minister Wilson died at Caracas on the 8th.

A court-martial is ordered to meet at Fort Leavenworth on the 15th of September, for the trial of Gen. Custar and others. Charges are preferred against Custar for leaving his post without permission.

General Emory is ordered to relieve Canby in his command of the Department of Washington.

A Punta Rosa telegram of the 27th says, the steamer Narva commenced paying out the cable to Key West, when it was discovered that the yellow fever was on board. The question of cutting and buoying the cable until the epidemic abates, was under consideration.

Washington, 20.

There is unquestionable authority for stating that Sickles had not received any order relating to the courts; nor requested any suspension or any Executive order in the premises. The President directed that the Peninsular Island at San Francisco Bay be reserved for military purposes; also a military reservation will be made at Camp Goodwin, Arizona, embracing 50 square miles of a grant. An order directing Canby to relieve Sickles will be sent so as to contain a clause keeping in force the existing order. The order sending Hancock to New Orleans will probably be issued to-morrow. When Thomas returns, that General will be assigned to the command of the 5th district. Corroborative evidence is furnished that Grant had sent a decidedly firm letter against the removal of Canby and Sickles. The differences between the President and Grant were believed irreconcilable and the removal of Grant from the War Office was expected, but in the afternoon they had an interview at the White House, the result of which was the adjustment of the trouble existing and the withdrawal of Canby's letter to the President.

Washington, 20.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office issued a patent in favor of the Union Pacific Railroad, Eastern Division, embracing a large amount of land of the Delaware Indians. A newspaper has been suspended by order of Pope, on the charge of disloyalty.

constructs the law correctly, he is vested with the power of approving or disapproving the orders of the military commanders, which does not rest with the President, as the latter seemed to infer by the second order he issued removing Sheridan.

The President replied that he had thought all this, and the War Department had nothing to do but execute the order of sending Hancock to Orleans. Grant also objected to the removal of Sickles, and said he did not consider his conduct relative to grants of recent orders in regard to States and Federal courts in subordination. The President replied that he regarded Sickles' course in direct obedience to orders. The above facts are derived from an official source. The President and Grant discuss their differences in a friendly spirit, but it is evident they are irreconcilable.

Fernando Wood is here urging the removal of McCulloch.

The government has taken an active interest in saving the life of Santa Anna, and has sent dispatches to our acting minister to urge Juarez to treat him liberally, and endeavor to secure lenient treatment in prison.

Seward had an interview with the President to-night, during which the state of the Cabinet was discussed. The Secretary declined to state the results. It will probably be that the first to leave the Cabinet will be both Swards. The President's friends agree on this.

An attempt was made last night to hold street preaching in this city, which was broken up by rowdies and one preacher badly beaten. Some arrests were made.

Chicago, 20.

The Tribune special says, Grant has decided to issue an order transferring Hancock, in terms as directed by the President, but will probably embody a clause requiring him to enforce the existing order in a separate order. It is said that Grant's letter earnestly urges the President to change his course regarding reconstruction, going so far as to state an opinion that persistence in the present course will bring innumerable evils upon himself and his administration. The President verbally informed Grant he could not agree with the expressed reiterated orders of Grant, and to transmit the order removing Sheridan; which Grant agreed to do, reserving the right to issue independent instructions to the District Commanders, in accordance with the powers given him by Congress. This averts a positive conflict for the present, though it is fully expected that the President will soon attempt interference in such a way that Grant will refuse to transmit the orders.

Langdon had an interview with Grant this morning concerning the President's offer of the Freedmen's Bureau to the former. Grant considered it inadvisable for Langdon to accept; that he was satisfied Howard had done his best and had committed no act which would not bear scrutiny; but if Langdon was appointed, Grant promised to aid him to his utmost ability. Langdon replied he would not accept the position, believing it was offered to facilitate Howard's removal and would embarrass the interest of his race. He urged Grant to use his influence to have Howard retained. One of the secret reasons of sending Canby to relieve Sickles, arises from the President's desire to remove Canby from the command of the Washington District. It has transpired that the President a short time ago contemplated putting Rousseau in command of Washington, but was finally dissuaded. The President still keeps Gordon Granger here. Before Congress adjourned, Gordon Granger declared it an unconstitutional body and said the President ought to disperse it with a body of soldiers. A rumor is circulating that an opinion is prevalent in Maryland that Johnson intends to resist the impeachment by force. Nearly all the rebel militia expect to be called on. Cyrus Hamlin, son of Hannibal Hamlin, died yesterday at New Orleans of yellow fever.

New York, 20.

The Times special says, it appears in the supplemental act which was supposed to give Grant all the powers possessed by the militia commanders is strangely deficient in that respect, and gives Grant the power to approve or disapprove of removals and appointments, also power to make removals himself; but if the President or Hancock choose, they can order registration lists to be kept open 90 days, or postpone the election ordered by Sheridan; and Grant is powerless. The law provides that the instructions to District Commanders must be transmitted through the army headquarters, but Grant has no power to refuse to transmit them.

Returns of all, except eight counties, show a registration of 110,000 whites, 90,000 blacks. Of the counties not heard from, four will give large white majorities.

Gen. Reynolds established a quarantine below Brownsville and Corpus Christi.

New York, 20.

Nominations for members of Parliament were made to-day. McGee was hoisted and prevented from speaking. Cartier's friends raised a riot in another place and Lancot, Liberal, had to be guarded home by the police. Three men were dangerously beaten. Several others were injured later in a riot in the east part of the city, more serious than first reported. The troops were called out and the cavalry charged upon the mob. Two squadrons had to guard the candidates on their way home.

None were killed, though quite a number were wounded.

Chicago, 20.

A Herald special says, the truth in regard to the rumors relative to the rupture between Grant and the President is not true. The General did protest against the removal of Sheridan, the ground of the protest being that it was unjust to remove Hancock to Orleans while the yellow fever was raging there.

Seward's friends say he is not going out of the Cabinet, as his presence in the State Department is absolutely required, at least for some time to come, for completing negotiations with Great Britain concerning the settlement of the Alabama claims, and with a fair way of progress upon the basis of the cession of British Columbia, and important negotiations with other powers involving the cession of territory to the United States; also opened by Seward. It is believed he alone can bring them to a favorable conclusion. His continuation of the services as Secretary of State, therefore, is deemed transcending in public importance to all, and the temporary political issues growing out of the late proceedings of the President.

A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the City, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft, ruddy complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty-three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause of so great a change, she plainly told them that she used the Circassian Balm, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any Lady's toilet. By its use any Lady or Gentleman can improve their personal appearance in a hundred fold. It is simple in its combination, as Nature herself is simple, yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in drawing impurities from the skin, cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its impurities, kindly healing the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be, clear, soft, smooth and beautiful. This is truly the "age of progress," and the American people are, beyond doubt, far ahead of all others. This is clearly demonstrated by the Sewing Machine—which is, strictly speaking, an American invention.

In this branch of manufacture, the EMPIRE SEWING MACHINE CO., office 616 Broadway, New York City, stands pre-eminent. Their "Improved Manufacturing Machine" has no rival. Its built on sound mechanical principles—is simple in construction—easily understood, and not liable to get out of order. Its sewing qualities, particularly on cloth and leather, cannot be equalled; and as such we recommend it to our friends and the public generally. Im-d-w R. & M. Co.

CONTRACTS.—Yesterday the contracts were let for the delivery at Camp Douglas, of 270,000 pounds of oats and 270,000 pounds of barley: the oats to L. Reggel at $3.12 per cwt., and the barley to Walker Bro's at $3 per cwt.

YE HONEST MINER.—Quite a number of prospectors paraded our streets within the past few days, fitting out and are bound for some locality which we were unable to learn. We conjecture, though, that their destination is Strawberry.

COUNSEL.—Brigham's intended tour through the northern settlements reminds us of those taken by political aspirants in the States previous to an election. "It is to be hoped the Saints will obey counsel, so that everything may pass off harmoniously at the next conference."

AUCTION SALE.—I will sell to-day at auction a large lot of dry goods and groceries, boots and shoes, clothing, furniture, ox yokes and bows, log chains and wagons, two fine ponies, household goods. Sale positive and without reserve.

J. R. SUMNER, Auctioneer.

ARRIVING.—Trains loaded with merchandise of all descriptions are arriving daily for the merchants here from the United States. The teams generally seem to be in pretty good condition, showing that this is a good season for the travel. We have also noticed some emigrant teams, but there are comparatively few to past seasons.

OUR cotemp., the Telegraph, can have the National Police Gazette by calling at our office, No. 76, Second South st., opposite the Revere House.

It contains quite a number of murders, suicides, rapes, seductions, thefts, infanticides, divorces, and other crimes which would grace the columns of the Telegraph and obscure its own literary productions.

TRAVELERS.—By noticing our advertising columns this morning, the traveling public will find the cards of the Planters' House, Fogg & Sparr, proprietors, St. Louis, Mo., and Metropolitan Hotel, Peoria, Illinois, I. Underhill & Co., proprietors. There is nothing like selecting a place to stop at when you are traveling, and we can safely recommend both of the named hotels to travelers. Mark the Planters' and Metropolitan down on your memorandums.

BREATHES there a man or woman with soul so dead, who never to themselves have said, I have been there and now will go, to the drug store of J. Bauman & Co.? If there be and a benefit would reap, we advise them to go where medicines are sold very cheap. They have now the largest stock, in the medical line, in Salt Lake City. If anybody takes sick, they will find Bauman & Co. the best "ministering angels."

THE Natal Caffres of Africa are in profound grief. Hard times prevail there, and have caused a great rise in the price of that indispensable commodity to a Caffre as to every one else.

Heretofore the matrimonially inclined Caffre could buy a wife for the moderate price of ten cows—cows being the Caffre "greenbacks," and a legal tender at Natal. For fifteen cows he could secure the best girl in the village. Now, however, owing to a scarcity, the price of the most ordinary wives has risen to twenty cows, and above that in proportion to the desirable character of the article. Hence the grief of the Caffres, a grief in which we are sure many of our own land, who most unwillingly enjoy "single blessedness," will heartily sympathize with them.—E.

Women in Utah are valued about the same. They don't sell them here, openly, but what amounts nearly to the same thing. Young maidens of 14 and 15 summers are given to the lustful, decrepit monsters of from 40 to 80 years of age, who have already one foot in the grave. This is called modern civilization in Zion.

Wit and Wisdom.

Mr. JOHN OXFORD, of the London Times, is in New York.

There has engaged to deliver sixty lectures in this country for 50,000 francs.

The gold yield of Australia shows a constant domination. The product in 1866 was only £5,809,987, against £11,942,783 in 1866. There has been a falling off every year since 1866.

GENERAL SHERMAN thinks the best monument that could be erected to General Lyon would be a college at Springfield, Mo., and the money already raised will doubtless be appropriated to that purpose.

CHARLES WAGNER, keeper of a boarding house in Buffalo, stole a large St. Bernard dog some time since, killed him and served up the meat for the delectation of a dancing party which assembled in his rooms.

The Grand Master of Maryland has accepted the invitation to lay, with Masonic honors, on the 17th of September, the corner stone of the monument to be erected on the ground of the Antietam Cemetery.

CICERO was at dinner where there was an ancient maiden lady, who affirmed that she was but 40 years old. Cicero said to a neighbor, "I must believe her, for I have heard her say so any time these 20 years."

It is curious that of the three principal Atlantic seaboard cities, Boston has a higher indebtedness per capita than either Philadelphia or New York, notwithstanding that her area and population are both so much smaller.

It is stated in the Frederick (Md.) Republican, that the banks of Frederick have instituted suits against the corporation for $200,000, claimed to have been paid by them for ransom when General Early captured the place during the late war, in July, 1864.

GEO. W. COPELAND reiterates his charges of drunkenness, at Portland, against General Banks, dares the committee, who have made an investigation recently, to publish their report denying it, and asks them to visit Portland with him and confer with gentlemen who have a full knowledge of the facts.

In Saline county, Mo., recently, Jonathan Wilson, in attempting to adjust a log on the ways of his mill, slipped and fell against the saw which was in motion. By this accident his left arm was nearly cut off, three of his ribs severed and his heart laid bare. He lived only a few hours after.

The French are very quietly increasing their possessions in Asia. They have lately annexed three provinces in Cochinchina. For several years they have controlled these provinces, which have an average population of 1,500,000, and have obtained more recently a protectorate over three other provinces. Cochinchina is one of those Asiatic countries in which the Catholic Church has far more than a century been firmly established, and where its rapid growth has only been checked by bloody persecutions. France can in this country render greater services to civilization than she has done in Mexico.

UNIVERSAL dissatisfaction seems to reign in the world. Nearly every one we meet wishes to be what he is not. The boy aspires to be a man; the man affects the ways of boyhood. The sailor envies the landman; the landman goes to sea for pleasure. The business man who has to be continually traveling about to buy or sell goods wishes for the day when he can "settle down," whilst the sedentary man is always wanting a chance to flit about and to travel, which he thinks would be his greatest pleasure. Town people think the country glorious; country-folk are always anxious to come to town. No one is satisfied, no one is always contented; and if we can pry into the secrets of those who preach the loudest about contentment we will wonder at the amount of discontent that reigns in their bosoms.

The New York World says: "Many readers of this article will probably within a period of less than three years from to-day, take the cars at Jersey City on a Monday morning cross the Mississippi forty-eight hours after, scale the Rocky Mountains early Tuesday morning, and comfortably with the Saints at Salt Lake City the same evening, across the realm of perpetual snow among the peaks of the Sierra Nevada. Within the next thirty-six hours, and arrived in time for five o'clock dinner at the Occidental Hotel, San Francisco, on Saturday, a little still in the knees for want of pedestrian exercise, perhaps, but still fresh, and flustered with the excitement of an unbroken stage ride of over three thousand miles."

Model Composition.—The Essex Standard says a boy in South Danvers wrote the following composition upon "Model Composition," which is very good for a schoolboy:

South Danvers is in the United States. It is bounded by Salem and reaches Middleton. The principal river is Gold-thwaite's brook, which empties into Salem harbor. Its principal lake is the mill pond, which is dry in the summer. The principal productions are eggs, apples, the South Church and South Cemetery. South Danvers has many fine farms, among which are the farm of Mr. J. H. Smith, who breeds his prize horses; the University, who breeds his prize cattle; and the farm of Mr. J. H. Smith, who breeds his prize sheep.
